Matthew Arnold as School Inspector. It is said that Matthew Arnold in the character of school inspector never assumed the stereotyped manner and coldly critical air usually associated with such an official. Mr. G. W. E. Russell says of him that he was "sympathetic without being condescending, and he reconciled the humblest drudge in a London school to his or her drudgery for the next twelve months."

See the tall figure, at once gracefui and stately; the benign air, as of an affable archangel; the critical brow and inquiring eyeglass bent on some very immature performance in penmanship or needlework, and the rightened children and the anxious teacher, gradually lapsing into smiles and peace, as the great man tested the proficiency in some such humble art as spelling. "Well, my little man, and how do you spell dog?" "Please, sir, d-o-g." "Capital! Very good, indeed! I couldn't do it better myself. And now let us go a little further and see if we can spell cat?" Chorus (excitedly)-C-a-t. "Now, this is really excellent?" To the teacher: "You have brought them on wonderfully in spelling since I was here last. You shall have a capital report. Goodby."

NEWSPAPER MAN TO GET MARRIED

ONE OF THE TWO PENSACOLA REPORTERS IN WASHING-TON EXPECTS TO BRING BACK A BRIDE.

An unusually interesting piece of news reached the city from Washington yesterday, contained in a letter from one of the Pensacola newspaper men now at the National Capital to a well known gentleman of the city who, by request, shall be nameless.

The letter, after recounting some of the experiences of the aforesaid newspaper man, closes with an intimation that the writer expects to bring a bride back with him from the frigid north. The wording of that part of the letter in reference to this interesting matter is as follows:

"Tell all the boys and the girls 'howdy,' but I think I'll have to give up the girls, as I expect to have a partner when I return to Pensacola." The gentleman who received the letter would not tell who the writer of it was, so readers of The Journal will have to figure the matter out to their own satisfaction.

The only reporters now at Washington from this city are Percy S. McLellan, of the News. Mr. Hayes Buy your meal and stock feed from expects to return to Pensacola direct the home manufacturer, encouraging from Washington-at least he said home industry, contribute to home that was his intention when he left. labor, and leave your money in your Mr. McLelian has announced his intention of visiting Jersey City, N. J., and other northern cities before returning. The burning question in newspaper circles now is: Which one is the guilty wretch?

The Olive.

The olive has been applied for various medicinal purposes since old Rameses I. held sway over his dark skinned subjects in northern Africa. In the days of ancient Rome the leaves and bark of the tree were used by the remarkable medical experts of that time to allay and cure violent attacks of intermittent fever, while the resinous gum which exuded from the tree in the hot season was used for many of the ills to which flesh is heir. The witness in the case of the State of tically isolated on account of the deep oil of the olive itself later was used by the Roman athletes to soothe their been twelve days since the Baltimore heated bodies after indulging in heroic Rev. Creating a Vacancy.

When the republic had been set up in France in 1848, wrote the Baroness Bonde, the first attempts of the enfranchised people to use their new powers resulted in the election of the most miscellaneous assembly that had ever tried to govern a country. A member nominated from Rouen went to Paris and selected his seat. He had hardly taken it when his next neighbor turned and stared at him. The Rouen man, embarrassed, turned up his coat collar, but too late. "Sir," said his lynx eyed colleague, "I believe I had the honor of sending you to the galleys for murder in 18-, when I was judge. You had strangled the Oblige me by resigning immediately." The next day the Moniteur announc-
